

ram //) 6. 86. 76-77; when Bhagadatta proceeded to attack Yudhiṣṭhira, he fought a severe battle with Pāñcālas, Sṛñjayas and Kekayas who were ready to fight with their weapons (udyatāyudhāḥ) 6. 91. 79-80; Bhīṣma told Duryodhana that since he had dug up enmity with Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas he should fight with them manfully; he himself also would kill Somakas and Pāñcālas (which term includes Sṛñjayas) (yudhyasva tān adya raṇe ... puruṣo bhava) 6. 94. 13-15; (19) At the end of the ninth day, it appeared that Bhīṣma had defeated Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas; so at the start of the night (rātrī mukhe) Pāṇḍavas, Vṛṣṇis and Sṛñjayas held consultation (mantrāya samupāviśan) 6. 103. 8, 10-11; (20) At the start of the tenth day, Kaurava army was being destroyed by the sharp arrows of Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas; hence, Bhīṣma, not caring for life, attacked them 6. 104. 23, 26, 29; Dhṛtarāṣṭra asked Samjaya how on the tenth day Bhīṣma, when attacked by Śikhaṇḍin determined to kill him (6. 104. 45-46), fought with Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas (daśame 'hani) 6. 105. 3; when Bhīṣma began to destroy the Pāṇḍava army, the great chariot-fighters (mahārathāḥ) of Sṛñjayas attacked Bhīṣma to kill him (vadhāyābhyadhravan bhīṣmam) 6. 105. 35; as the war advanced Pāṇḍavas, backed by Sṛñjayas (samhatāḥ saha sṛñjayaiḥ), attacked Bhīṣma 6. 110. 40; Dhṛtarāṣṭra once again asked Samjaya how Bhīṣma fought with Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas on the tenth day 6. 111. 1; as advised by Bhīṣma, Arjuna led Sṛñjayas (and Pāñcālas) to attack Bhīṣma and kill him; Sṛñjayas were asked to attack Bhīṣma without fear as they would be protected by

Bhīma and Arjuna 6. 111. 15-20; exhorted by Dhṛṣṭadyumna, Somakas and Sṛñjayas attacked Bhīṣma showering weapons on him (śastravṛṣṭyā); angered Bhīṣma fought with them 6. 113. 16-18; the weapons used by Sṛñjayas are detailed in 6. 114. 2-3; Sṛñjayas and Pāṇḍavas raised a loud roar when Bhīṣma fell down 6. 114. 101; at the end of the tenth day when Dhṛtarāṣṭra was informed about Bhīṣma's downfall he wondered who could be the warriors who surrounded Bhīṣma (ke vīrāḥ paryavārayan) while he was showering arrows on Pāñcālas and Sṛñjayas; he also wished to know who from among the Kauravas were on the left side of the wheel of Bhīṣma and shot arrows on Sṛñjayas (vāme cakre vartamānāḥ ke 'ghnan samjaya sṛñjayān) 6. 15. 25, 28, 32; (21) On hearing the death of Bhīṣma (7. 2. 1), Karna admitted that the army which included Pāṇḍavas, Sātyaki, Kṛṣṇa and Sṛñjayas was invincible by kings; 7. 2. 31; (22) On the eleventh day, Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas met with arrows Droṇa's attack on them; Droṇa broke and scattered their army; agitated by the arrows of Droṇa, they were again and again scattered by him (te kampyamānā droṇena bāṇaiḥ pāṇḍavas sṛñjayāḥ | punaḥ punar abhajanīya) 7. 6. 33, 35, 41; Sṛñjayas, though they tried, were not able to kill the army of Droṇa as it was protected by him; since Droṇa was acting very swiftly, Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas felt as if there were many Droṇas (ekam āśukāriṇam āhave | anekam iva samtrāsān mentre) 7. 12. 19, 23; Sṛñjayas trembled seeing Droṇa, like fire, burning the army of Pāṇḍavas (sākṣād agnīm ivottthitam) 7. 13. 2; Sṛñjayas and others with their weapons raised (udyatāyudhāḥ) met