

Ghaṭotkaca was dead 7. 150. 57; seeing Alāyudha arrive to help Duryodhana, all Kurus were delighted 7. 152. 1; when Ghaṭotkaca became invisible, Kurus cried aloud fearing he might kill Karna 7. 154. 21; the Kauravas (= Kurus) cried aloud when the Kurus were being destroyed on a large scale (kuruvīrāvamarde); they began to flee; when the army was routed it was difficult to know who were Kurus and who not (na jñāyante kuravo netare vā) 7. 154. 40-42, 47; all Kurus then pressed Karna to use his śakti against Ghaṭotkaca, since all Kurus were being killed 7. 154. 48-50; Ghaṭotkaca killed many Kuru warriors (kauravān) by assuming large body 7. 154. 61; the rest of the Kurus (kauraveyāḥ) were delighted by the death of Ghaṭotkaca and they shouted like lions; the Kurus then honoured Karna 7. 154. 61-63; Kurus and Pāṇḍavas continued fighting when only three parts of the night remained (tribhāgamātraśeṣāyām rātryām yuddham avartata | kurūṇām pāṇḍavānām ca) 7. 161. 1; Kṛṣṇa wanted to keep the Kuru army, divided into two by Droṇa, to Arjuna's left (dvaiddhībhūtān kurūn dṛṣṭvā...sapatnān savyataḥ kurmi) 7. 161. 4; before the release of brahmāstra by Droṇa, Kurus and Somakas had got mixed up and, shouting, they killed each other with weapons 7. 165. 99; when Droṇa released brahmāstra, the armies of both Kurus and Pāṇḍavas, were afflicted 7. 163. 45; Bhīma, Nakula and Sahadeva urged Arjuna to attack Kurus and separate them from Droṇa 7. 164. 56; when Droṇa was killed, the Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas attacked Kurus who, losing their enthusiasm, (nirutsāhān kurūn) fled 7. 165. 58; Kurus afflicted by

weapons, routed, with their chief heroes dead, were very much grieved (kuravaḥ sastrapīḍitāḥ | hatapravīrā vidhvastā bhṛṣam śokaparāyaṇāḥ) 7. 165. 68; Kurus, not hoping for victory and with their spirits low, fled to protect themselves 7. 167. 11; Dhṛtarāṣṭra wanted to know how did the Pāṇḍavas plan to protect Dhṛṣṭadyumna when the Kurus, encouraged by Aśvatthāman, returned to attack their enemies 7. 167. 8; Bhīma ready to fight with Aśvatthāman as the Kurus and Pāṇḍavas looked on (paśyatsu kurupāṇḍuṣu) 7. 170. 51; Dhṛtarāṣṭra was curious to know who from among the Kurus were alive 8. 4. 3 (in Saṁjaya's list of those of the Kurus who were dead are to be found not only Bhīṣma, Duḥśāsana, Vikarna, Bhūriśravasa, the sons of Duryodhana and Duḥśāsana, but also Droṇa, Karna, Jayadratha, Vinda and Anuvinda, and others who were not Kurus but who fought on the side of the Kurus); Kurus, Pāṇḍavas and Sṛñjayas fought each other 8. 16. 24; Nakula blamed Karna for the destruction of Kurus (tvaddoṣāt kuravo kṣiṇāḥ) 8. 17. 51; Bhīmasena killed many Kuru warriors 8. 19. 74; Kurus, delighted to see Karna ready to fight, shouted loudly 8. 26. 31; no one except Karna from among the Kurus was capable of resisting Arjuna 8. 26. 45; Karna fled from the battle notwithstanding the Kurus watching him (paśyatām kuruvīrāṇām) 8. 28. 58-59; Kurus followed Duryodhana in their Bārhaspatyavyūha 8. 31. 22, 26; Karna, together with Kuru warriors, attacked the fleeing army of Yudhiṣṭhira 8. 33. 42; Kurus, with upraised weapons, attacked Bhīma from all sides of the Vyūha (tataḥ pakṣāt prapakṣāc ca prapakṣāt cāpi)